

5 Points for a strong civil society contribution in the 2013 UN High Level Dialogue on Migration and Development

November 15, 2012

As we representatives of Civil Society prepare, in November, for both the Civil Society Days of the Global Forum on Migration and Development in Mauritius involving some 150 civil society networks and organizations, and a World Social Forum on Migration in the Philippines with close to 1000 people from migrant rights organizations, and

As critical stakeholders and partners with governments and international organizations in both global policy-making arenas and programmes on the ground,

Civil Society, in its broadest representation, expects to have a central and integral role in the UN High Level Dialogue in 2013 beyond the limited format of the 2006 HLD. The modalities for Civil Society participation should consist of:

1. Meaningful participation of civil society in the HLD itself, including:

1. Credentials for NGOs, migrant and workers' rights organizations through a roster status, whether or not they currently have UN credentials or have participated in previous UN or GFMD events, and without vetting by governments.

1.2 Full and active civil society participation in HLD plenary sessions, with opportunities for civil society to speak in plenary, and with non-governmental participants comprising at least 10% of participants in each roundtable.

2. Substantive preparatory activities as input to the HLD

2.1 Regional civil society preparatory meetings in the first half of 2013 parallel to regional government preparatory meetings, with support by member states and the UN System.

2.1 A one-day informal interactive hearing in 2013 with representatives of non-governmental organizations, civil society organizations, migrant and worker rights' organizations, to be presided over by the President of the General Assembly.

3. Appropriate Civil Society coordination and resources

3.1 A broad NGO Steering Committee should be established to coordinate this Civil Society engagement, involving the GFMD Civil Society Coordinating Office, the Global Coalition on Migration, Global Unions, the NGO Committee on Migration and local NY migrant organizations among others. Civil Society, not member states or the UN system, must make decisions regarding their representation through a democratic and transparent process that engages participation from all regions of the world and across sectoral, racial/ethnic, class and gender lines.

3.2 A trust fund with contributions from member states, managed by the UN Non-Governmental Liaison Service and/or the NGO Steering Committee, is key to enabling civil society participation—particularly grassroots migrant and workers' rights organizations and organizations from the global South. This fund would support regional and global preparatory meetings and HLD participation.

Regarding other modality issues currently under debate:

4. We urge a succinct negotiated outcome document that can address critical issues of global migration governance and concrete actions for strong HLD outcomes.
5. We urge that the roundtables address:
 - Measures to promote and protect the human rights of all migrants, including migrants in distress; irregular migrants; and the rights of migrant children
 - Labour migration and decent work, including immediate possibilities to address abuses within the recruitment field
 - Gender and migration
 - Migration and development, including the post-2015 development agenda

We commit to working with governments and the UN System throughout the HLD process and beyond, for effective outcomes that affirms the rights of all migrants and address critical development goals. We will be contributing more on substantive issues at a future date.
